Noel and Glory at Sunrise on Lake Douglas

From the President's Desk

Hello,
A note from the President's Article Bag

And we're back to training!! August is almost gone, September is right around the corner. Our classes are full, people are learning, dogs are thriving! Fall means the fall trials. Do you have your entries sent in? I don't and need to get moving!!

Important dates:

September 5 is our first fall correction match. We hope everyone will come out. Instructors encourage your students to come out and run their dogs even if they are not ready to gain the experience. We know it is the day after Labor Day but schedules are tough!

The November GABOC Trial is fast approaching. November 2-5. Kick off is the Rally Fun Match on Thursday, double Rally Trial on Friday along with our OB Fun Match, and trials on Saturday and Sunday. We need volunteers!!!! Please contact me or Pat Senne.

Volunteers Needed:

We would love it for anyone who is interested to sign up as a substitute instructor. Our classes are super full and instructors are doing double duty. Rally attendance on Tuesday has suffered due to Ring Rental with Assistance. If someone would be willing to take this over, it would be WONDERFUL!!! Please consider sharing your talents and remember, instructors train for free.

See you all soon and happy training!

Windy's back to school! Yippee!

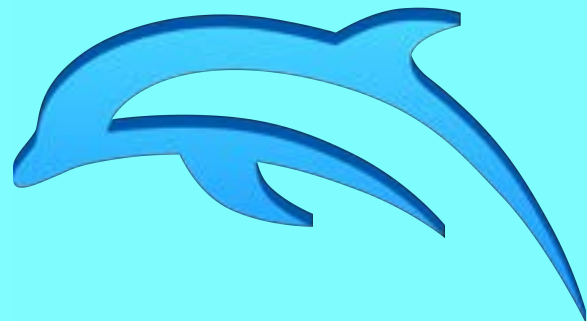

Windy's Mom Says What Training & Competing Means to Us

This July Windy had minor surgery. She had two imploded hair follicles that turned into unpleasant lumps on her neck and side and they needed to be removed. When her stitches were removed, one wound opened up on her side in just hours needing to be stapled (gross and stressful!), causing another two weeks of R&R. No training for Windy for about 5 weeks or so. Hard bringing only Mars to GABOC when I have been used to the Pack of Three. I was upset and sad. It was only one week of her missing GABOC but it still made me pout like a spoiled child who misplaced their toy. I wanted my Windy, and hated leaving her behind.

I really enjoy trials and I do love the ribbons we have won over the years. These accomplishments give them a great balanced and active life that I would not trade. But what it comes down to is I love my dog. I love being with them, proud of them if they Q or not, just being with them. I love giving them kisses and hugs for a job well done in training. Titles, awards, rankings, yes- they are awesome however what is more important is the trust and the bond training forms. It's the relationship that is the most important aspect of training. Our time with our dogs is short. MAKE THE MOST OF IT and let's go Windy- just one more OB show season- we still have green ribbons to earn! 🥺

Enjoy the Journey as it comes to an end way too soon!

Joan & Windy (and Mars too!)

9 critical Pet Safety

THINGS TO REMEMBER AS SUMMER TURNS TO AUTUMN

1. Fleas and mites

Fleas can be a menace all year round and due to central heating will be attacking your dog even in the depths of winter! Consider treating the house with a suitable product. Ask your vet to recommend a good product – treatment will can provide cover for several months on end.

Tiny harvest mites are very difficult to see, but pay special attention to your pet's tummy, ears, eyes and paws during the autumn months. Both fleas and mites can cause infections and other problems.

2. Pesticides

Many people use household poisons to keep rodents and insects at bay. If your pet ingests one of these highly toxic products it could produce illness or even death. Beware, in your own home of where you place these products and when walking your dog, be sure you watch him carefully.

3. Children's toys

children may leave their tiny toys and toxic craft material such as glue, magic markers etc. laying around so try to keep a close eye on this and try to get the children to tidy up after themselves!

If your pup chews and/or swallows one of these items he could experience an upset tummy or even more serious – a blockage.

4. Mushrooms and other outdoor hazards aware of the growing threat of poisonous mushrooms during the autumn months. Should you spot your dog eating a mushroom and are unsure if it is poisonous or not, contact your vet immediately – better to be safe than sorry.

Conkers. Serious cases of poisoning are rare – ingestion can cause marked gastro-intestinal signs – drooling, retching, vomiting, diarrhoea and abdominal pain

5. older pets

just like older humans, aging pets may have developed arthritic joints that make them more sensitive to the cold weather. Think about getting them a dog coat and check that your walks are not too long for them.

6. Kiddy in the car

Apparently, it's a pretty common thing and it only takes being mindful and beeping the horn a few times to potentially save a life. Don't want to wake the neighbours with a horn beep? Knocking a few times on the bonnet will also do the trick.

7. The anti-freeze is very scary because it's too easy to make this mistake. You're in your garage with your dog, winterizing your car, you spill a little anti-freeze on the garage floor and mean to clean it up, but before you do, he has already taken a few licks because it smells sweet and good to him. It's very dangerous and can kill. Take the time to be extra careful with this toxic stuff

8. Whipping

Whipping out these special brushes that remove a dog's undercoat to reduce shedding? – don't use them in winter. Your dog needs that undercoat during the colder weather to keep them warm.

9. ID tags

make sure your pets have current ID tags on them at ALL times.
